KINFOLK

The list is not complete and the information in regard to individuals not very full. The object was to show the relationship of the individuals rather than their biographies, and to give such information as was available in regard to ancestors rather than that of living persons.

The number of ancestors increased rapidly as we went back so that it would be impossible to include them all, even if the data were available. If there were no information of relatives, the number of ancestors in the 10th generation is 2 to the 10th power or 1,024, where it stops the number of people in the 10th generation before the individual. The total number of ancestors back to the 10th generation is 1,023.

So generation back 10 = 1,023 and 1046
11 = 2,047 and 1,046
12 = 4,095 and 1,046
13 = 8,191 and 1,046
14 = 16,383 and 1,046
15 = 32,767 and 1,046
16 = 65,535 and 1,046
17 = 131,071 and 1,046
18 = 262,143 and 1,046
19 = 524,286 and 1,046
20 = 1,048,572 and 1,046

Further back, such calculation is not practical, but it would show that the present population of the United States, and in the 20th generation would be about the population of the world.

So the writer wanted to show that this is the case and to make it clear that even so far back as 100 years ago the individuals were few in number and living generations. We hope that KINFOLK may be of interest to genealogists.

Don Cornelius Rusk
1933
Chicago, Illinois

KINFOLK is a partial list of the relatives of the grandchildren of Olive Strong Robinson Rich and Ben Cornelius Rich. The information has been gathered together and recorded for the benefit of the younger generation. It includes data from family Bibles, and memorandums, genealogies, and questionnaires filled out by various relatives. These relatives have been very generous of their time in gathering the information and putting it in the desired form. They have been very kind in loaning the treasured Family Bibles, books and documents. On each page is shown the source of the information on that page. There is no logical arrangement of the data, as it was recorded as it was received. However, the attempt was made to keep the husbands and wives together and to show the names of the parents and of the children of each individual. The names are shown in the index in full. From this it is possible to trace any line either forward or back as far as this data goes.

The list is not complete and the information in regard to individuals not very full. The object was to show the relationship of the individuals rather than their biographies, and to give such information as was available in regard to ancestors rather than that of living persons.

The number of ancestors increases rapidly as we go back so that it would be impossible to include them all, even if the data were available. If there were no intermarriage of relatives, the number of ancestors in the n^{th} generation is 2 to the n^{th} power, or $y = 2^n$, where y equals the number of people in the n^{th} generation before the individual. The total number of ancestors back to and including the n^{th} generation is $2^{n+1} - 2 = \text{Say } X$.

10 generations back	$y = 1024$	and	$X = 2046$
20 "	$y = 1,048,576$	and	$X = 2,097,150$
27 "	$y = 134,217,728$	and	$X = 268,435,456$
30 "	$y = 1,073,742,824$	and	$X = 2,147,483,646$

In other words one's ancestors in the 27th generation before one would about equal the present population of the United States, and in the 30th generation would about equal the population of the world.

So the writer decided to limit the list to the data readily available, and to make it brief. Even so, there are about 1000 names in the index and a few lines go back twelve generations. We hope that "Kinfolk" may be of interest to others.

Jan Dyckman, "a native of the county of Bentheim in Westphalia, was driven to Amsterdam Holland by Catholic persecution. He emigrated to New Amsterdam (New York) in 1660, toward the close of the Dutch occupation, settled in Harlem, and became one of the leading men of the new community. He is mentioned in the troubles with the Indians, when he was corporal of his company, and he is often referred to in the subsequent development of the uppermost part of Manhattan Island. With an associate Jan Nagel, he was awarded a tract of land by the Dutch Government in the upper part of Manhattan Island a portion of which land remained in the hands of his descendants up to 1916, nearly two hundred and forty years later. This award was about 1677.

Jan Dyckman was an unusually energetic and farsighted person. He it was who devised a means of inducing tenants to develop his land by offering leases of long standing on practically nominal terms. One of them gave his tenant the use of valuable property for seven years for a rental of a hen a year. It was, moreover, his plan to select particular pieces of property of great fertility, insuring profitable development, and his success -- and he was notably successful in his day -- was due in no little measure to this kind of business judgement. It may be noted that his talent in this direction was hereditary. Each generation of Dyckmans added desirable land to the ancient farm. The family, in fact, early became conspicuous, as investors in real estate, until at last their holdings stretched from the top of Fort George throughout the "Dyckman Tract," northward beyond 230th St, East to the Harlem River, and westward to Broadway, in part to Spuyten Duyvil Creek and Tibbits Brook." "At one time (1808) their farm included about 400 acres, which is one of the largest in the history of Manhattan Island." "Its only rivals were the early farms of Petrus Stuyvesant (1505) and Tenis Eidesse Van Hulse (1720) and James de Lancey (1785)."

Jan Dyckman married, (1st) Madeliene De Tourneur, daughter of Daniel De Tourneur, in 1673. Married (2nd) Rebecca Waldron, daughter of Resolved Waldron in 1690. He died in 1715. Children of Jan Dyckman and Rebecca (Waldron) Dyckman are; --

Other children not known.

Jacob Dyckman, son of Jan Dyckman and Rebecca (Waldron) Dyckman was born in 1692 and died in 1773. Married Jannetie Kiersen.

Jacob Dyckman was "well known for his keen interest in agriculture. He sought new seeds and experimented with them and was an early importer of blooded stocks." He was a person of considerable determination; rather than pay the penny toll to the Philipse family for the use of their bridge over the Harlem River, he is said to have rallied his friends and spent a small fortune building a long causeway and bridge which should be free for the farmers. This became known as the

Daniel de Tourneur, born in France. He "fled from a little town in Picardy, about 1652 during Huguenot troubles. He was a prosperous burgher of New Harlem, becoming sheriff, magistrate and delegate to the general assembly. He was a man of high spirit, losing his temper magnificently, the old records say, when reminded that the proximate cause of his emigration to America had been a homicide! It is known that Mr. de Tourneur, when attending the funeral of a friend, a Huguenot, in his native town, had denied the King's command to stop the Protestant service, and when arrested by the officer of the guard, had lost his temper, drawn his rapier, killed the officer and put the soldiers to flight."

Madeliene de Tourneur, daughter of Daniel de Tourneur
Married Jan Dyckman in 1673. (From Myra Cobb's memo)

Mary de Tourneur, granddaughter of Daniel de Tourneur, was born on Feb. 4, 1728, and died on Feb. 14, 1802. Married William Dyckman son of Jacob Dyckman and Jannetie (Kierson) Dyckman. For children see William Dyckman, (1725-1787). pages 3.

Evert Brown Dyckman, son of William Dyckman and Maria (Smith) Dyckman, was born Sept. 25, 1799 at Greenbush, New York. Died Oct. 4, 1881, at Schoolcraft, Michigan. Married (1st) Harriet Hinckley on March 17, 1825 at Liverpool, New York.

"Harriet Hinckley was a tailoress, and Evert Dyckman went after her to take her to the Dyckman house to make the men some clothes. When he arrived at the Hinckley home and stopped to pitch quoits in the yard with the men, Harriet looked out of the window and said she was not going to ride with "that red-headed Irishman". She did ride home behind him on his horse, along the towpath, and later she consented to marry the "Irishman" on St. Patrick's Day." "They lived at Newbridge, which was afterwards called Clay, N.Y., nine miles north of Syracuse on the Oswego River, Onondaga County. It was a small town with a general dry goods store, grocery and post office. Evert Dyckman was a cooper (made barrels), was in the dry goods business, and in the canal business. Nine children were born to them there."

Harriet Hinckley Dyckman, died Feb. 17, 1838, 12 days after the birth of her ninth child. Harriet Euretta was given to a neighbor woman, a Mrs. DePuy, to nurse. Mrs. DePuy had just lost her own baby, and when Evert Dyckman moved to Michigan on about Sept. 20, 1838, Mrs. DePuy begged to keep the baby Harriet. She raised Harriet until she was grown, though Evert Dyckman always paid her for the child's keep.

On about Sept. 20, 1838, Evert Brown Dyckman and his family moved from Clay N.Y. to a little settlement called Sinkbrook, Michigan, where they arrived on Oct. 11, 1838, and settled on a homestead about 2 miles east of Paw Paw Mich. In the party "were Evert Dyckman and his six children, his father and mother, (William Dyckman and Maria (Smith) Dyckman), two nieces and two nephews," his brother in law Henry Hinckley with wife and two children. They drove in 3 big covered wagons and a "rock-a-way" to Buffalo where the whole outfit was put aboard a sailing ship. They disembarked at Detroit and then drove overland to Sinkbrook. The trip took 3 weeks, one of which was consumed by the boat trip from Buffalo to Detroit. The nieces and nephews above mentioned were Evert, Maria Hicks, Mary and Hannah (Smith) Church.

Evert Brown Dyckman, a widower, married (2nd) Almira E. (Hobbs) Van Vranken a widow with two children, whose husband had died the year before. The wedding took place at Jackson, Michigan on Oct. 16, 1839. The children of the widow Van Vranken were;—

(10) Teresa Van Vranken, born Aug. 23, 1834.

(11) Charlotte M Van Vranken, born Aug. 25, 1836.

Almira E. Hobbs was born in 1812 and died on Sept. 17, 1840. No children by Evert Brown Dyckman.

(12) Cecilia A. Daniels, born Dec. 10, 1834.

(13) Sarah A. Daniels, born Dec. 12, 1836.

Amelia LeGrave Daniels owned a house in Schoolcraft which which was mortgaged, and which she was about to lose. She appealed to Evert B. Dyckman for help. He paid off the mortgage, fell in love with and married the widow, built a wing on the widow's house and moved in with his large family.

Amelia (LeGrave) Dyckman and Evert Brown Dyckman had one child;—

(14) Jane Amelia Dyckman born July. 9, 1842.

Amelia (LeGrave) Dyckman was French and all of the children of Evert Dyckman learned to speak French, but did not keep it up.

Amelia (LeGrave) Dyckman died April 14, 1843. Date of her birth not known. After the death of Amelia Dyckman, her daughter Cecilia went to live with her grandfather Daniels at Dexter, Mich.

On a visit to see Cecilia, his stepdaughter, at Dexter, Evert B. Dyckman became acquainted with Eliza (Woodhouse) Crossman, whom he married (4th) on Nov. 25, 1844. Eliza Woodhouse was born Dec. 3, 1813, and died

Memorandum of Gertrude Isabella (Ross) Woelfel of facts related to her by her cousins

"James Hewitt and his brother John, William Thompson, John Creighton Jr. and Mathew Mayes were settlers on the Conemaugh River near its confluence with the Allegheny River, in what is now called Armstrong County, Pa. In the spring of 1808, James Hewitt, I think with their mother and a nephew John Creighton, in company with the Thompson family, consisting of William Thompson, his wife and children, Robert, Elizabeth, Jane and Polly, came down the Ohio River by boat to the mouth of Yellow Creek and by land across to Sandy Township, Stark Co., Ohio.

"On the way down the river James Hewitt made love to Elizabeth Thompson and they were married as soon as they came on shore. John Hewitt had previously been engaged to Elizabeth Thompson, so he never married perhaps because he was heartbroken.

"The children of James and Elizabeth (Thompson) Hewitt were, William, John, Thomas, Joseph, Nancy, Margery, Ann, Eliza, and Sally.

"Nancy Hewitt was my (Gertrude Ross') grandmother and eloped with Isaac Newton Ross, Dec. 15, 1835. There was some opposition to the marriage, so this night she stole out from her home and went with Isaac Newton Ross. Her brother Thomas heard a whistle and told of it next day. She named one of her children after this brother, Thomas Hewitt Ross, who was my (Gertrude's) father."

From "Pioneer History of Sandy Township, Stark Co. Ohio," by James H. Robertson, Canton, Ohio, is the following.

"In the spring of 1807, James Hewitt with the help of his nephew John Creighton, Jr. and John and James Reed, father and son, harvested a crop of corn and put out wheat, when all returned to McKeesport, Pa.

"The next spring, Hewitt, with his brother John, a bachelor, and their nephew, John Creighton Jr., together with William Thompson and family, came out from Westmoreland County, Pa. On the way down the Ohio River, James Hewitt and Thompson's daughter Elizabeth, became engaged to marry, and the ceremony was performed immediately on their landing on shore. Coming to the Sandy, Hewitt entered the lands now known as the William D. Robertson farm south of the creek, N.E. $\frac{1}{4}$ Section 23.

"William Thompson settled on the farm now owned by Irvin Thompson. His children were Margery, married to John Forsythe;

Jane, married to John Reed; Polly married to David Griffith; James, who followed the ocean as a sailor, was lost at sea; John, who served in the "War of 1812", died while returning home and was buried at a place called "Slippery Rock"; Robert who married Sarah Downing, was the father of the present family of that name.

"John Creighton, the ancestor of one of the Creighton families that for a long time resided in the township (Sandy), was married in Ireland to Margaret, sister of James Hewitt, and settled on the southeast $\frac{1}{4}$ of Section 9, long known as the Alexander Farm."

"I have made mention of James Hewitt, one of the early settlers, and it is proper that some account be taken of his five sisters, who by marriage established the relationship between many of the old families of this community. The sisters were, one married in Ireland to Henry whose daughter, Finniah, married Robert Hamilton Sr.; Margaret married John Creighton in Ireland, Nancy married James Hamilton in Ireland and was the father of Robert Hamilton, Sr. (Note by B.C. Rich This is evidently an error. Nancy could hardly be a father and would certainly not be the father of her sister's husband); Mary Ann married Beatty. they reared a large family, one of whom was James Beatty, long a prominent citizen of Rose Township, Carroll County; Catherine married Mathew Mays."

"On the breaking out of the war of 1812, a company was organized to go to the front. James Downing Jr, was elected Captain, the following serving as privates: James Reeves, Benjamin Miller, James Carothers, John Creighton Jr, Henry and George Shultz, John and Robert Thompson. The regiment encamped at Wooster on Christmas day, then marched to Ft. Meigs at which place and Ft. Sandusky, the winter was spent. George Shultz, having contracted a fever, returned home on a furlough and died. John Thompson on returning home after the war, died of fever and was buried at a place called "Slippery Rock."

(13) Alvin Perry Oct. 11, 1851.

"The Potter Family came to Livingston County, Ill., in 1850, moving in with Joel B. Anderson's family until they could build a log cabin of their own. This was 14 x 16 ft, one story and one room. There were only eleven children then as two had died and Alvin Perry was not born until a year later, so they had plenty of room to cook, eat and sleep all in that one room and keep anyone that came along over night. The wolves would howl around the house at night. Wolves and deer too could be seen in the daytime. There were only five or six houses in Pontiac, no railroad, no Chenoa, only two or three families at the point of timber, neighbors of the Potters. Not another house between Pontiac and the timber at Lexington. Not another house on all the prairie to the southwest, or northwest for 15 or 20 miles."

Hinckley was a tailoress, and Evert Dyckman after her to take her to the Dyckman house make the men some clothes. When he arrived the Hinckley home and stopped to pitch quoits the yard with the men, Harriet looked out of window and said she was not going to ride that "red-headed Irishman". She did ride home him on his horse, along the tow path, and later she consented to marry the "Irishman" on St. Pat Day". Evert Brown Dyckman loved a joke and on that day. Quotation from Myra Cobb's Memo is also the following.

"Harriet Hinckley was a happy woman who always the humorous side of things. She did the spinning and weaving for her large family, and also much door work, such as soap making and candle dipping.
"They lived at Newbridge, which was afterward called
N.Y., nine miles north of Syracuse on Oswego River, County. It was a small town with a general dry store, grocery, and post office. Evert Dyckman was cooper (made barrels), was in the dry goods business in the canal business."

Chapter III.
Richard Kimball and his descendants. Will of Henry Scott - Will of Richard Kimball.

The common ancestor of the great majority of Kimballs in this country was Richard Kimball, who with his family embarked at Ipswich, in the County of Suffolk, England, April 10, 1634 in the ship Elizabeth, William Andrews, master. After braving the dangers of the Ocean voyage, he arrived in Boston Harbor and from thence went to Watertown, Mass. He had left the comforts and ties and oppressions of old England to find for himself and children a home in the new world. It was to him a land of promise, a land of religious and political liberty, a land to which the longing eyes of the dwellers in old Suffolk were turning as fondly as did the eyes of the ancient Hebrews turn in their captivity to the promised land of Canaan. As the Israelites passed through the "Wilderness" and through the deep waters of affliction to reach their haven of rest, so these sturdy Puritans, with their families, with undaunted hearts, broke loose from the ties of friendship, left the graves of their forefathers, passed over the wilderness of waters and reached the Canaan of their hopes. An ocean now rolled between them and their early home, and in a new and savage country, and in another hemisphere, they started a new home. They helped to make the beginnings of a New England and lay the foundation of a rival to the Old England across the sea. They were that Puritan Stock which has in its turn made New England the mother of the great West, the sturdy stock which only needs to be convinced that it is right in order to do and dare all that is noblest. A stock that found a wilderness peopled with a few savages, a climate that would have killed a less hardy race, a soil which is far from fertile, and yet out of these untoward circumstances wrested success. They came when the throes of revolution were agitating the mother country, when the conflict between the adherents of the Established Church and the Puritans, between the King and the people, was at its height, and when the principles of civil rights and religious liberty were struggling for existence in England.

James I, after a feeble reign, had expired March 27, 1625. His son, the illstarred Charles I, had succeeded him. Fires were smoldering in England which would soon burst forth into devouring flames. In 1629 Charles I dissolved the last of three Parliaments and for the next eleven years attempted to rule England by his absolute power. In 1634 the King made his journey to Scotland, in order to hold a Parliament, and by a statute compel the Scottish people to worship by Episcopal rule. A very difficult task, which no King, though backed by the power of the church, could accomplish. He made William Laud Archbishop of Canterbury, whose office was an object of aversion to the Puritans. Under his authority every corner of the Kingdom was subjected to a minute inspection, and every band of Separatists, or Puritans as their adversaries called them, was tracked out and broken up, even the religious ceremonies of private families did not escape the vigilance of his spies.

Deadly hatred of the Established Church and of the King as its head was thus engendered in thousand of homes.

These acts rendered England so uncomfortable that the Puritans were compelled to seek a home elsewhere. They, therefore, sought a dwelling place in the wilderness of the new world, and they called their new home, in loving remembrance of the old home from which they came, New England. Here they sought the right to worship God unmolested by bishops. There was little opposition to the first emigration, but three years later, in 1637, by an order of the King and council, eight vessels lying in the Thames and ready to sail, freighted with Puritans, were detained. In these vessels were embarked Sir Arthur Hazelrig, John Hampden, John Pym, and Oliver Cromwell the great Protector, who afterwards signed the death warrant of King Charles, in 1649. Such was the condition of affairs in England, and such the insults, persecutions and wrongs, heaped upon the Puritans in 1634, which the proud spirits of many could not brook, but in the wilds of New England they sought out a home in which they might be free.

The leaders of the exodus were many of them men of influence in England, and they brought with them many men of the middle classes, who were also tired of the Tyranny and exactions to which they were subjected. To this class belonged Richard Kimball. He had a trade which would be eminently useful in the new colony. His services were in such request that he was soon called to leave his first settlement in Watertown and go to Ipswich, where he was given a house lot, and other privileges, on condition that he should be the town wheelwright.

RICHARD KIMBALL

Richard Kimball came to this country in the ship Elizabeth, William Andrews, master, in 1634. He appears to have gone, soon after landing to Watertown, Mass. He settled in a different part of town from that occupied by Henry Kimball. According to Bond and other writers, Richard and Henry were brothers. There is but little evidence to support this supposition, and it seems to be mainly founded on the fact that they both came over on the same vessel. Richard is said on the shipping list to be thirty nine years old, but he was probably somewhat older. He was, however, in the prime of life, and soon became a prominent and active man in the new settlement.

He first settled in Watertown and his home lot is thus given by Dr. Henry Bond: Richard Kimball, six acres, bounded on the north by Cambridge, east by land of W. Hamlet, south by the highway, and west by land of Edward White.

This lot was a long way from the center of town. It is now in Cambridge, which many years ago annexed the eastern part of Watertown. The lot was situated near what is now the corner of Huron Avenue and Appleton St., and near springs of water.

He was proclaimed freeman in 1635 May 6. Was a proprietor in 1636-7. Soon after this date he was invited to remove to Ipswich, where they were in need of a competent man to act as wheelwright to the new settlement. Here he spent the remainder of his days. The town granted him a house lot, Feb. 23, 1637, next adjoining Goodwin Simonds at the west end of town. He was also granted at the same time "40 acres beyond the North River near the land of Robert Scott." In 1639 he had the liberty to pasture "two cows free." On "the last day of the last month 1641, he is mentioned as "among the commoners of Ipswich." He was appointed one of seven March 1, 1645. On the 22nd day of the tenth month 1647 he was allowed two pounds for killing two foxes.

His services as wheelwright were appreciated by his townspeople, for he was permitted in January 1649 "to fell such white oaks as he hath occasion to use about his trade for the town use."

Dec. 19, 1648, he contributed with others three shillings as his annual proportion toward the sum of £27.75 as a rate for the services of their military leader Major David Dennison, then commander of the military forces of Essex and Norfolk Counties.

In September 1652 he was one of the appraisers of the estate of John Cross, one of the earliest settlers of Ipswich.

On the 25, day 11 mo, 1652, he and his son Richard, Wheelwrights, "for £14, sell 30 acres upland bounding on the land of Mr. John Winthrop," also sell another lot of land of ten acres of "meadow."

In 1653 he was one of a committee of three to survey fences in the common fields north of the river. His brother in law Thomas Scott died Feb. 1653-4 and he was joint executor with Edmund Bridges, of his will. On May 25, 1654, their official position was recognized by Thomas Scott, Jr, then a resident of Stamford, Conn.

In 1660 he was the right "to fell 20 white oak trees to make weels for the townsmen their use." In 1664 he owned 43 shares in Plumb Island.

Richard Kimball was of the parish of Rattleden, County of Suffolk, England, as is shown by the following entry on the parish register; "Henry Kemball ye sonne of Richard and Vrsula his wife baptized 1615-12 of August."

Ursula was the daughter of Henry Scott of Rattleden, appears from the following extract from Henry Scott's will:-
To Abigail Kemball, my grandchild twentie shillings to be paid at 21.
To Henrie Kemball my grandchild twentie shillings to be paid at 21 to Elizabeth Kemball my grandchild twentie shillings to be paid at 21 to Richard Kemball my grandchild twentie shillings to be paid at 21."
He also mentions his wife Martha, and sons Roger and Thomas Scott. Thomas Scott came with his wife and children to this country in the same vessel as Richard and his family and they brought Martha Scott with them. This will was made 24 Sept 1625 in the 21st year of James of England by Henry Scott of Rattleden in the County of Suffolk and diocese of Norwich. It was proved in the court of the arch deacon of Sudbury 10 January 1624-5. As Thomas Scott settled in Ipswich this may have had some influence in causing Richard's removal from Watertown. Henry Scott was buried at Rattleden Dec. 24, 1624. (Parish Register)

Richard Kimball married second, Oct. 23, 1661, Margaret Dow, widow of Henry Dow of Hampton, N.H.

WILL OF RICHARD KIMBALL.¹

(Note by B.C. Rich. This will is given in full on pages 29, 30 & 31 Volume 1 of the History of the Kimball Family. It was witnessed by Moses Pengry, Senn. and "Aron" Pengry, Senn.)

Moses and Aaron Pengry were prominent citizens of Ipswich. The marriage settlement of Sarah Pengry, daughter of Moses, is on record at Salem, Mass. She married John, son of Robert Day and three of her children married three children of Benjamin Kimball² of Bradford, Mass.

On June 22, 1674-5 Richard Kimball died aged more than 80 years. His wife died the following Spring, March 1, 1676. Richard Kimball was well to do for those early days. The inventory of his estate, which was taken July 12, 1675 and returned to court Sept. 28, 1675, amounted to £737-35-6d. He had already given to his children at their marriages.

- XI Caleb Kimball² b. Ipswich, Mass. 1639. d. 1682. m. 11-7-1660 to Anna, daughter of Robert and Ann Hazeltine of Rowley, Mass., who was b. 4-1-1640 d. 4-9-1688. She was the sister of his brother Benjamin's wife.

Benjamin Kimball², son of Richard Kimball¹ and Ursula (Scott) Kimball¹, was born in 1637, about the time that his father moved from Watertown to Ipswich, Mass. He died June 11, 1695. He was probably a resident of Exeter N.H. in 1659, a carpenter by trade. Removed to Salisbury, Mass. and was on the trial jury in 1662. Was a resident of Rowley, Mass., May 12, 1663 when he bought land in Rowley of Elizabeth Starrett of Haverhill, Mass. At this time Rowley included within its limits the present Bradford, Georgetown and Groveland. His land was in what is now known as Bradford. On Feb. 20, 1668, at the first town meeting in Merrimack, afterwards Bradford, he was chosen an overseer of the town, 16, 1670 and March 15, 1674. On Jan. 6, 1675 he and his wife Mercy of Bradford, Mass., sold 40 acres of land to the inhabitants of that town for the use of the minister. On Nov. 23, 1667 he bought several tracts of land. Among them was land which once belonged to his brother, Thomas Kimball², who was killed by an Indian on May 3, 1676. He was cornet of horse troops and was known as "Cornet Kimball." He and his brother Richard Kimball² were soldiers in 1683 and 1684, under Captain Appleton. His house was in the west parish of old Bradford, not far from the ancient cemetery. He was a wheelwright and farmer. He married in Salisbury, Mass., April 1661, Mercy daughter of Robert and Ann Hazeltine. His inventory (in his will) showed that he was well off for the times. The total amount of the estate was £1060. 7s. Among the assets was a one fourth interest in a saw mill in Haverhill, Mass., near the Amesbury line that he bought of Mathew Harriman. This interest was handed down in the family for several generations. The gravestones of Benjamin and Mercy Kimball may still be seen in the cemetery in Bradford.

Mercy Hazeltine², daughter of Robert Hazeltine and Ann Hazeltine was born Aug. 16, 1642 and died Jan. 5, 1707-8. She was one of the first members received into the first church in Bradford, when she, with sixteen other women, were admitted Jan. 7, 1682-3. Married Benjamin Kimball² in April 1661 in Salisbury, Mass. Her will, made May 14, 1706 was proven Feb. 2, 1707-8. She gives the names of her children in her will.

Children of Benjamin Kimball² and Mercy (Hazeltine)

Kimball² are as follows (eleven children);—

- I Anna Kimball.³ b. 12-23-1661 d. 1-1-1774 m. 4-21-1682 Richard Barker, son of Richard and Joanna Barker of Andover, Mass.

- X Ebenezer Kimball.³ b. June 20, 1684. d. Jan. 23, 1715 Bradford, Mass.
- XI Abigail Kimball.³ b. 6-20-1684.? d. 1-23-1715? Bradford, m. June 2, 1703 to Moses Day, son of John and Sarah (Pengry) Day of Ipswich, Mass. (John was the son of Robert Day and Sarah was the daughter of Moses Pengry). Abigail and her husband lived in Bradford, Mass. Had 5 children.

Ebenezer Kimball,³ son of Benjamin Kimball² and Mercy (Hazelzine) Kimball² was born June 20, 1684 at Bradford, Mass., and died at Bradford on Jan. 23, 1715. Married Ruth Eaton, who died April 6, 1750. He lived in Haverhill and Bradford, Mass., and owned land in Methuen, Mass. His widow married Aaron Johnson and had children,— Lydia Johnson, Sarah Johnson and Richard Johnson.

Children of Ebenezer Kimball³ and Ruth (Eaton) Kimball³ are;—

- I Jemima Kimball,⁴ b. Oct. 22, 1709; m. Feb. 14, 1734 Samuel Silver of West Amesbury, Mass. She sold to Ebenezer and Abner her share in her father's estate in 1753.

- III Abraham Kimball.⁴ b. Jan. 3, 1713-14. Resided at Haverhill, Mass.

Abner Kimball,⁴ son of Ebenezer Kimball³ and Ruth (Eaton) Kimball³, was born in Haverhill, Mass. on April 20 1712. Died on Aug. 1, 1752. Married Dinah Barnard on March 28, 1734. Resided in Haverhill, Mass. He was a yeoman and a trader. His son-in-law, Thomas Hoyt was the administrator of his estate.

Children of Abner Kimball⁴ and Dinah (Barnard) Kimball⁴ were ten, as follows;

- I Ruth Kimball.⁵ b. 2-3-1735 d. 1736.

- II Miriam Kimball.⁵ b. 7-14-1736. m. Thomas Hoyt and lived in Amesbury, Mass. They had a son Ebenezer Hoyt.⁶
- III Anna Kimball.⁵ b. 3-18-1737-8 m. 4-12-1757 to James Clement.
- IV Ebenezer Kimball.⁵ b. 4-17-1740. d. 1831.
- V Ruth Kimball.⁵ b. 2-8-1742. d. 4-6-1742.
- VI Rebecca Kimball.⁵ b. 2-8-1742. d. 11-8-1754.
- VII Barnard Kimball.⁵
- VIII Abner Kimball.⁵ b. 6-6-1746. d. 9-1-1746.
- IX Moses Kimball.⁵ b. 11-8-1747. d. Nov. 9, 1828; m. at Hopkinton, N. H. Oct. 16, 1771 to Jemima Clement daughter of Timothy Clement of Hopkinton. In 1801 they removed from New Hampshire to Warren, Jefferson Co., Ohio. He was orderly sergeant in Capt. Isaac Baldwin's Co. at Lexington, Mass. in 1775. He was at Bunker Hill, and was at Saratoga at the capture of General Burgoyne.

Note

The original spelling of the name was Kymbolde. This changed to Kemball, then to Kimball.

The information on pages 84 to 90 was taken verbatim from the History of the Kimball Family, Morrison and Sharpless authors. Only information in regard to the direct ancestors of Moses Kimball and their brothers and sisters was taken. Some slight changes in form and arrangement were made but the text is that of Morrison and Sharpless. The small figures after the name indicates the generation with Richard Kimball the founder of the family in this country being the first generation. Likewise Moses Kimball⁵ is of the 5th generation. This is the method used by Morrison and Sharpless. For further information on the Kimball Family, see their very excellent book, - "The History of the Kimball Family".

"The old Dyckman farmhouse at Broadway and 204th Street, New York City, has been presented to the City to be used as a historical museum. It was built at the close of the Revolution and its walls are rich in historical associations. Mr. Arthur Guiterman, who seems to be almost the only poet to find inspiration in the picturesque chronicles of Manhattan, has made it the subject of this interesting ballad, which we quote from the New York Times."

THE DYCKMAN HOUSE.
 by Arthur Guiterman.

Plain as the brass of an old sword-hilt
 Is the tale of the house that the Dyckmans built.

In Charles the Second's jovial reign,
 Jan, the first of the Dyckman strain,
 Fairhaired, ruddy, strong, and shrewd,
 Cleared the soil, and his hardy brood
 Killed the wolves in their rocky lairs,
 Turned the loam with iron shares.

Full a hundred years had fled;
 Well the Dyckman race had sped;
 Sweet their orchards, broad their farms
 When Freedom called true men to arms.
 They nursed no doubts of the need of force;
 They did their part as a thing of course.
 Forth they sallied, boy and man.
 William, head of the Dyckman clan,
 Took the field, and his three good sons
 Marched along with their flintlock guns—
 Abraham bold, and Michael keen,
 And blithe young William, aged thirteen.

Through the war with its changing tides
 The Dyckmans fought in the gallant Guides.
 Their cronicles may still be found
 In the blood-stained roll of the Neutral Ground,
 And yellowed, time-worn records tell
 How sturdy Abraham Dyckman fell,
 Raiding the camp of DeLancy's corps.
 And how young William paid that score.

Peace at last! In full retreat
 Sounded the tramp of alien feet,
 Quitting the isle we love; and then
 The Dyckman's came to their own again.
 But the camping foe had left their land
 Bare as the back of a baby's hand.
 Waste were the fields and the orchards, too;
 Burned was the home in which they grew.

The Dyckman breed were men of force;
 They took their task as a thing of course.
 Again they plowed their wasted leas,
 Again they set their orchard trees;
 With toughened timbers, marked by fire,
 From tumbled barn and ruined byre,

They raised the framework, strongly planned,
 Of this old house. Long may it stand
 A monument for coming years
 Of the last of the flower of the pioneers.

For in this brave old house survives
 The lesson blazed by its builder's lives:

"Be true; and keep, whatever befall,
 The faith that each man owes to all.
 Be strong; for strength shall purge you clear
 Of all mean hatreds born of Fear.
 Then, should the years that hither press,
 Bring other days of storm and stress,
 A race of clean-limbed, clear-eyed men
 Shall look the world in the face again."

Esther (Rich) Reilly furnished a clipping from Good Housekeeping of 1922 or 23, from which the following is taken, about the Dyckman House at Broadway and 204th St. New York City.

"And now that you have rubbed the twentieth century mist from your eyes, come and stand near the old Dyckman House at the edge of a field over-looking the Albany Post Road. Here comes the Wednesday Coach! It rounds the turn gallantly, all glistening paint, rattling wheels and jingling harness. It lumbers by, swings the corner, and is lost in its own dust toward Kingsbridge.

"Across the valley rises the rugged breast of Laurel Hill, topped by the earthworks of Fort George. Behind you lies the gentle slope of Cock Hill, now called Inwood. Nearby are broad fields bordered with smiling hedy rows, broken here and there by irregular clusters of trees under which fat cattle are grazing. In the orchard beyond, white chickens dart through the grass in a never ending hunt for grasshoppers. The distant plowman calls to his plodding oxen — a hawk wheels slowly overhead — the world is at peace. This is the scene that the old Dyckman House looked out upon in the days of its youth.

"On this spot Jan Dyckman built his first house in 1666, on an original grant from the Crown. There it stood in sturdy comfort, till the days of the Revolution came. William Dyckman and his six sons were forced to fly for their lives when the British occupied the country roundabout, so they joined the famous Westchester Guides, and became trusted scouts for the Colonial Army. After seven years of exile William Dyckman returned and found the home of his grandfather a charred ruin. The British had burned it as a punishment. There, on the ashes of the old house, the new house was built in 1783.

"The house itself, while not large, has an appearance of comfort and amplitude. Its spacious veranda, massive chimneys, and generous roof lines bespeak the homely comfort of the early Dutch settlers. And comfort it was to them, though to us, accustomed to modern conveniences, life in the old Dutch way would have had many drawbacks.

"This is an old Dutch farinhouse restored as it was in the days of its youth."
